What Teachers Say

DonorsChoose.org teachers are a creative, passionate bunch who go above and beyond for their students. Here's what they have to say.

"DonorsChoose.org made me fully aware of the generosity of complete strangers. It has renewed my passion for teaching and has provided so many opportunities for my students."

Tonya Coats Elementary school teacher, California

"From paper and snacks, to movie tickets and sailing lessons, the opportunities teachers create for their students with the help of the generous donors at DonorsChoose.org inspire me to keep pushing myself professionally and personally. I loved my job already, but DonorsChoose.org helps me love it even more."

"My teaching has changed dramatically. I now allow myself to teach my students that the sky's the limit and that there are people who want to support them. Funded projects are a vote of confidence that the work we're doing matters. My principal says, 'It seems like Christmas all the time in Weaver's room!"

Jill Weaver Junior high school science, Ohio

"DonorsChoose.org is so easy to use. It's made especially for teachers and supporters of education, so it draws a unique audience that is committed to teachers and students."

Elizabeth Mundt 4th grade teacher, Minnesota

"It doesn't take me long to create a project. The time I invest is totally worth it because, with the help of DonorsChoose.org, I'm able to bring so many things into my classroom."

Tran Polizzi 6th grade teacher, California

"I feel as if I have a million people cheering me on and supporting my educational practice."

Monique Dituri High school teacher, New Jersey

Teach Without Limits

From Shakespeare to underwater robots, see how teachers nationwide are using DonorsChoose.org to bring learning opportunities to life.

Ms. Fjellestad's class in Colorado went skiing and snowboarding

"You provided students with a fun-filled day that certainly opened their eyes to athletic and character-building activities they may choose to pursue in the future either through Outdoor Club or with their families."

Ms. Jenning's class in Illinois got heart rate monitors

"These monitors have not only excited and helped motivate students in our PE classes but have offered a solid foundation for the educational side of physical activity."

Mrs. Hooten's class in Indiana received gardening supplies

"Not only will this project allow our students a wide range of environmental science experiences and knowledge, but also an opportunity to help feed their families."

Does it cost money for teachers to post projects?

Heck no! You can sign up and post a project without spending a dime. Our site is absolutely free for teachers.

Who can post a project?

If you're employed full-time in a US public or public charter school, and you work directly with students at least

How long does the process take?

You can create your very first project in about 30 minutes (even faster when you get the hang of it!). Our team of super-screeners will review and post your project in about 3 days. You can choose to keep your project posted on the site for up to 4 months, though we've seen projects funded within hours of being posted! Once your project is funded, we'll order the materials and you'll get them in about 3 weeks or less!

What are my responsibilities?

You'll pick out materials your classroom needs and answer some short essay questions about your project. If your project meets its funding goal, we'll ask you and your students to thank your donors with notes and photos of the project in action once the materials arrive.

signed up. Check out our full eligibility details.

What happens if my project isn't fully funded?

Projects can remain on the site for up to 4 months, and over 70% of projects reach their funding goal. If a project doesn't meet its funding goal by that time, donors can redirect their contributions to support your next project.

Who owns the resources?

Any materials or resources we send should be directly experienced by the students as described in the project essay. After they've been used, resources are property of the classroom for which they were initially requested, so future classes can continue to benefit. Give our full materials policy a look.

need. Public school teachers from every corner of America create classroom project requests, and you can give any amount to the project that inspires you.
